

_Phone # NAME

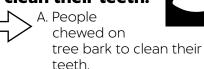

Fill in your name and number above. Read each question and color in or circle the arrow pointing to the correct answer. Return your questionnaire to the front desk for a chance to win! After you return your sheet, you may request an answer sheet to see if you were correct.

Did kids in prehistoric times get cavities?

- A. No, dentists weren't invented yet, so there was no need for cavities.
- B. No, because they didn't have sugar in every food available.

What did ancient cultures use to clean their teeth?

When did brushing become a common practice?

A. Not until dentists were invented to teach people how

B. Tooth brushing wasn't common until less than 100 years ago. Before that, many people expected to loose most of their teeth to cavities.

What protects teeth from cavity causing bacteria?

A. The gooey plague on your teeth acts like a shield. The more plaque, the better.

B. The enamel on vour teeth acts like a house protect each tooth.

BONUS QUESTION:

How often should you clean your teeth? We think vou know.

Can teeth repair themselves like bone, muscle and skin?

A. Of course, if you think hard enough, you can make anything happen!

B. No, once the enamel has a leak in it, a bigger hole will follow.

Write your answe

Are cavities contagious?

> A. Yes, the bacteria is.

B. No, unless you sneeze on people.

How much saliva does the average person make each day?

B. Almost a half gallon every day...that is 63 bathtubs full in a lifetime!

Which land mammal has the most teeth?

B. The giant armadillo has up to 100 teeth.

Which ocean animal has the most teeth?

A. The great white shark. It has 300 teeth!

> B. A starfish has 500 sparking white teeth.

